Gwaandak Theatre

Gwaandak Theatre, the Yukon's only Indigenous theatre company, was founded in Whitehorse in 1999 by theatre artists: Leonard Linklater and Patti Flather. One meaning of "gwaandak" in the Gwich'in language is "storyteller". Gwaandak Theatre develops, produces and tours plays to empower Indigenous and Northern voices, for both youth and adults. Our programming also includes new play workshops, readings and training for theatre artists. Our productions explore themes around decolonization, cultural identity, social justice, underrepresented voices and human rights. They question, honour, and celebrate. They tour to both tiny communities and major centres. They speak to youth, with comprehensive study guides for high schools and colleges.
